Review Of the Year 2015

I can't believe that it is that time of the year again already. And this will be my second personal newsletter of the year.

If you read the first one then no, I haven't been doing very well with my strengthening and yes I am still getting told off about it!

So, this year brought a few surprises - the main one being little Barnaby which kind of hampered Jen's plans to come back to practice. I hate to give secrets away but Jen has another little surprise due in Spring too!

As you may remember from last years' review, our management focus at Anatomy this year was staff training. I want to congratulate the team for the huge amount of effort and time they have put in this year learning all kinds of things from Lymphatic Drainage Massage to Biomechanical Assessments. This has become a permanent Anatomy fixture and we hope to extend our training modules even further this coming year.

We are also planning on expanding our treatment services to include Oncology with two members of staff training in Oncology Acupuncture, Lymphatic drainage, reflexology and massage. This is an area that is close to both myself and Jen's hearts and we are delighted that we have found the right learning providers to teach us and the right staff to train in this area.

We have also expanded our University Placements Scheme again this year. We feel it is really important for the upcoming graduates to gain the best and diverse experience they can, and it also provides our team with a great opportunity to refresh their academic knowledge and show off a bit!

We had some major administrative changes this year and as you are aware a small price increase -this was the first time we have increased prices since opening 8 years ago and we are very grateful that this has been accepted graciously. Apart from most of my hair turning grey I have coped pretty well with these.

What are we up to next year then?

Well, as well as the training, and placements we have a few plans up our sleeves that we'll keep to ourselves just now. An opportunity to work alongside a different professional discipline may be exciting for us and we have also been keenly looking to expand this year and the search goes on for the perfect place.

As for me.....I'll be joining a Pilates class :)

Many Thanks for your continued support and Happy Holidays!
